

CÉSAR MANRIQUE

César Manrique was born in Arrecife, Lanzarote. He moved to Madrid, where he graduated as a teacher of art and painting. Between 1964 and 1966 he lived in New York, where a grant from Nelson Rockefeller allowed him to rent his own studio. He painted many works here, which were exhibited in "Catherine Viviano" gallery.

Some of his creations in Lanzarote are Mirador del Rio, Jameos del Agua, Jardin de Cactus and many others and outside the island are Lago Martiánez, Mirador del Palmarejo, Playa Jardin and others.

Manrique died in a car accident at Tahiche, Teguise, very near to the Fundación, his Lanzarote home, in 1992. He was aged 73.
