

All of the pools have a depth from 1.20m to 1.90m, except one which is 2 meters deep. The average temperature of the water in the pools is 20-24 degrees. The Lake, as it's known by the local people, was built on an area of natural pools, which were called The Colonel and The Saga and they have been around since before The Lago was built. Now it's called Llanos de Martianez and it has been used for a bathing place of the first tourists in the late 19th and early 20th century.